YEAR 'ROUND RECREATION

BIG PINE IS TWICE BLESSED WITH WONDERS OF THE MOUNTAINS, NESTLED AGAINST THE 14,000 FT. CRAGGY PEAKS OF THE PALISADE CREST TO THE WEST AND TO THE EAST THE WHITE MOUNTAINS AND ANCIENT BRISTLECONE PINE FOREST RISING TO THE 14,000 FT. LEVEL.

THROUGH ALL SEASONS BIG PINE IS TRULY THE HUB OF THE INYO COUNTY VACATION WONDERLAND.

SPRING brings desert and mountain wild flowers into bloom. Take the beautiful Death Valley loop trip and see the sand dunes, sulphur pits, colorful rocks, over seven varieties of cacti, ghost towns, old mines and historic landmarks such as the remains of the old toll house on Westgard Pass.

In the SUMMER discover the high country lakes, miles of streams, camp at many of the many USFS and county campgrounds, drive to the Ancient Bristlecone Pine Forest, enjoy the picnic area at Schullman Grove and the self guided hiking tour.

FALL is the perfect time to capture the beauty of the foliage in full autumn color, explore ghost towns, hunt and fly-fish.

Enjoy WINTER trout, catfish and bass fishing in the Owens River as well as upland game hunting. Winter is another great time for the loop to the east through Death Valley, world famous for its fascinating history and beauty and for being the lowest point in the U.S. In the mountains to the west, have family snow fun cross country skiing, sledding, tobogganing and ice skating on frozen ponds.

In the town of Big Pine the vacationer or passing tourist will find all the necessities of accommodation. There are several motels, restaurants, gas and service stations and stores to meet most needs. Visitors can take leisurely walks through safe, quiet streets, visit the picturesque old church whose stained glass windows were brought around 'the Horn' on sailing ships, and chat with friendly residents.

BIG PINE

VACATION HUB OF THE EASTERN SIERRA

Ancient Bristlecone Pine Forest

North Entrance to Death Valley

BIG PINE RECREATION AREA

Big Pine, 4,000 ft. elevation lies in the heart of the beautiful Owens Valley, an easy half-day drive from southern California on U.S. highway 395, the arterial highway from southern California to Reno, Nevada.

PALISADE GLACIER

The southern most glacier in the United States, located at the 13 to 14,000 ft. level, the Palisades Glacier measures 2 to 2½ miles in length and 1 mile in width. Both glacier and rock climbing conditions of the palisades should be attempted only by the experienced as the precipitous front wall of the Sierra holds no encouragement of the building of trails.

BIG PINE and BAKER LAKES

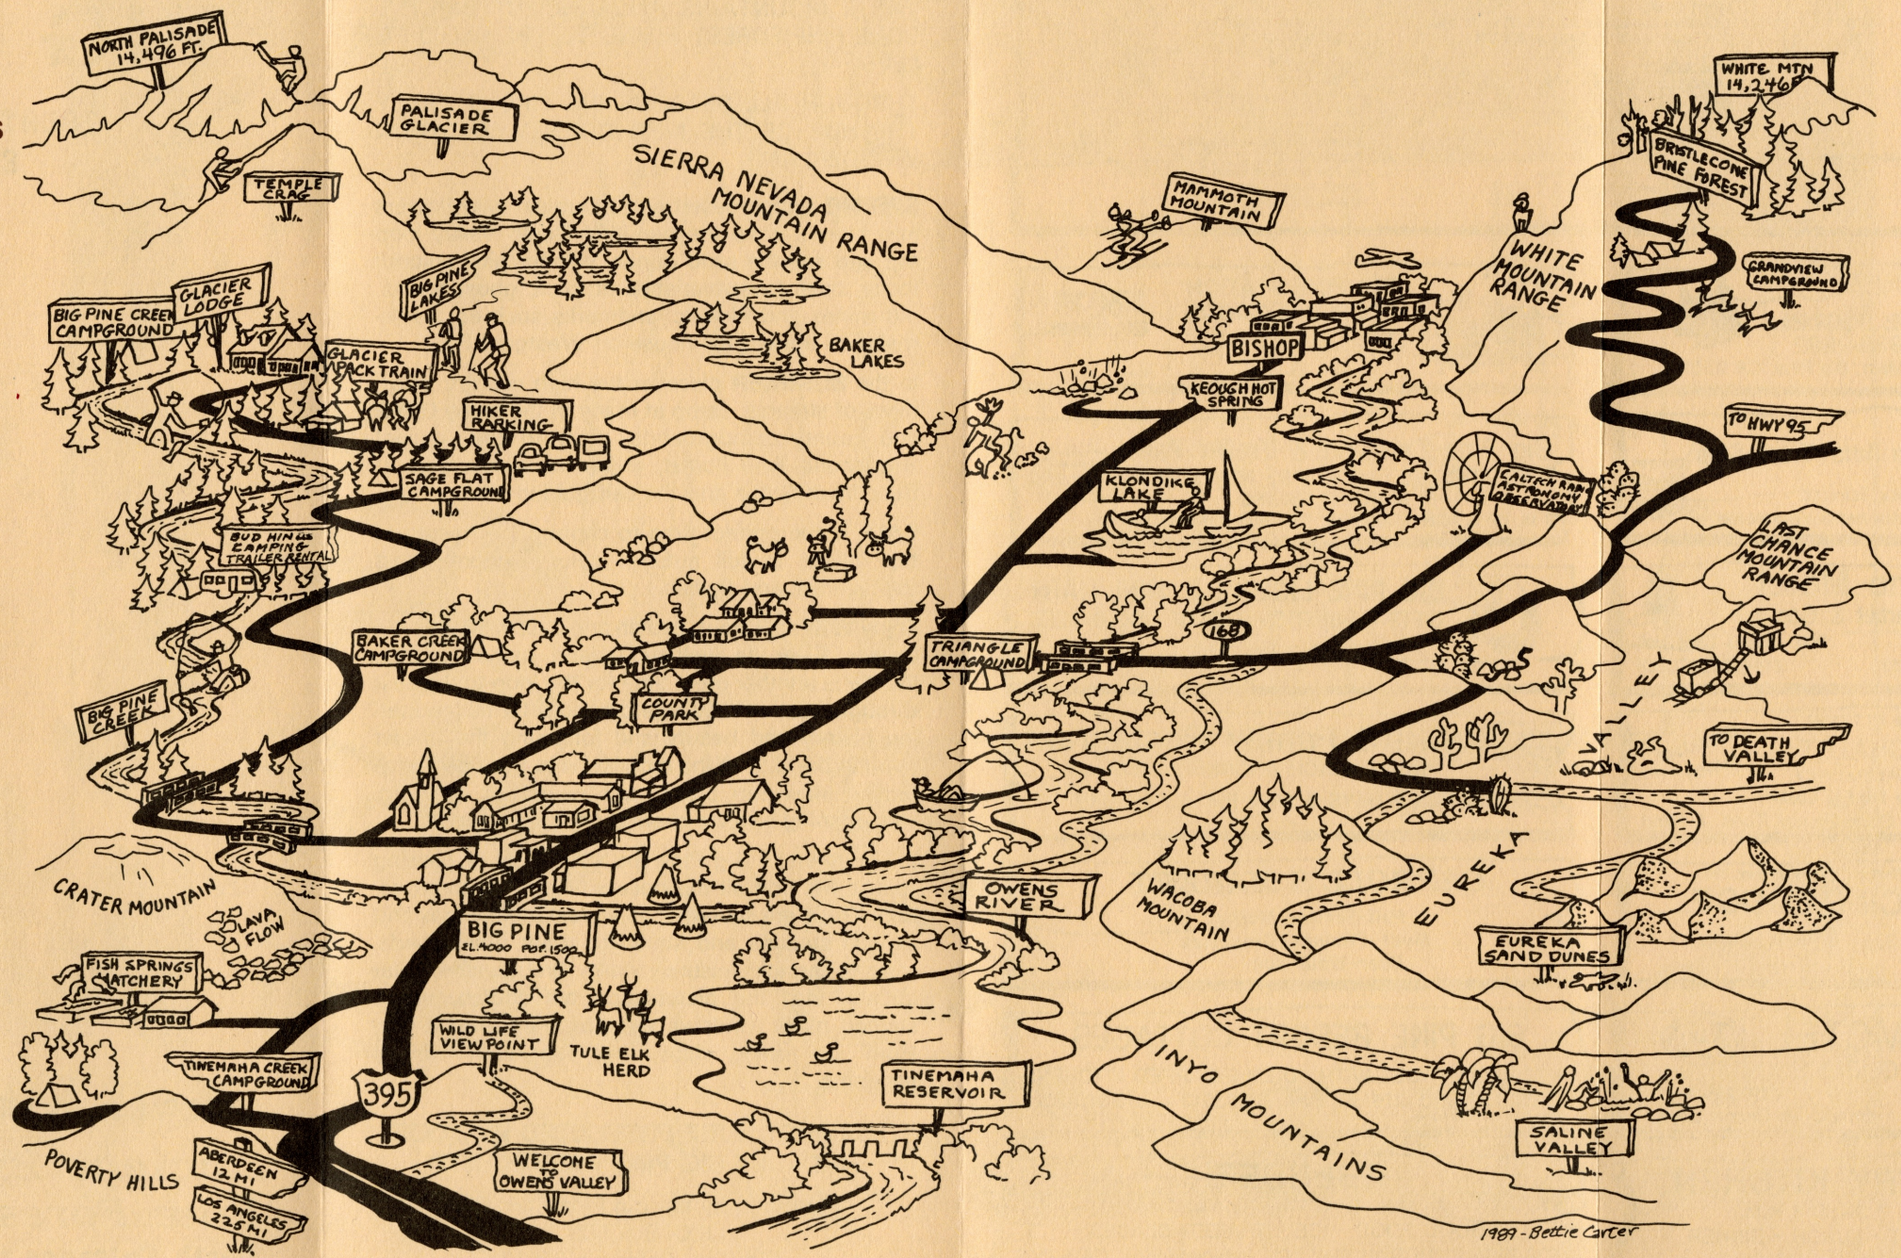
Big Pine Creek Canyon North and South Fork trails pass a chain of 15 lakes on the way to the glacier areas. These spectacular rugged glacier fed lakes are well stocked with good sized trout, the higher ones with the ever-treasured golden trout. Day hikers or riders should plan a full day for this trip. Baker Lake trails from the pack station cross Logger's Flat on Baker Ridge to 10 remote lakes in beautiful alpine setting.

BIG PINE CREEK and CAMPGROUNDS

Big Pine Canyon boasts one of the finest trout streams in the High Sierra. Rainbow and Brown trout, stocked and native, are plentiful and the creek is easily accessible in most areas. Fishing season runs from May through October and deer and upland game birds are hunted in their respective seasons. Well maintained campgrounds with a total of 85 spaces line Big Pine Creek. At 8,000 ft., 11 miles from the town of Big Pine, at road's end, is Glacier Lodge with rooms, housekeeping cabins, dining room, store and trout pond. Glacier Pack Train, open only through the summer months, offers trail rides and pack trips to the North Fork and Big Pine Lakes. Campsites and vacation trailer rentals are available at Hinds Trailer Park at the 6500 ft. level.

OWENS RIVER

Sizeable trout, bass, and catfish are taken from the Owens River all year 'round. Dove, chukkar, pheasant, quail and deer are hunted in season along the river banks and Tinemaha Reservoir areas. Floating the many miles of winding river is a popular way to cool off on hot summer days.



ANCIENT BRISTLECONE PINE FOREST

At 10 to 11,000 ft., high on the windswept, rock strewn slopes of the White Mountains, just 23 miles from Big Pine are the oldest known living things in the world — the amazing Bristlecone Pines, some more than 1000 year older than the oldest Redwoods. Methuselah, age 4600, was a youngster when Moses received the Ten Commandments. During the summer months, the USFS gives informative talks on the history of these oldest living trees and self guided tours complete the experience. The paved road enroute offers several spectacular view points to the valley 6000 ft. below and across to the crest of the Sierra range.

THE "EARS"

Rising to a height of 140 ft. (45m) in the air and seen from distant miles in the center flats of the Owens Valley are the star listening radio telescopes installed and operated by Caltech. The eight listening devices at the facility range from 18 ft. or 5.5m to 130 ft. or 40m in diameter.

DEATH VALLEY Entrance

The most enjoyable and interesting way to see Death Valley is on the partially paved 75 mile road that goes from Big Pine through the Inyo Mountains, Eureka Valley with the highest sand dunes in the U.S., the Last Chance Range with its old mines and sulphur pits and into the valley near the famed Ubehebe Crater and Scotty's Castle. A southward, unpaved, junction in the road past Wacoba Mountain leads into the famed Saline Valley and its many hot pools.

KLONDIKE LAKE

Three miles north of Big Pine, a reservoir of water furnished by the City of Los Angeles Dept. of Water and Power, offers recreational water skiing, sailing, windsurfing and swimming on the otherwise barren flats of the valley floor.

TULE ELK HERD

At the wildlife viewpoint 7 miles south of Big Pine, various displays interpreting the Tule Elk, are provided. Early evening hours are the best time to view the herd. Nearby, the Fish Springs State Fish Hatchery is 5 miles south of town.
